

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

A thin film transistor including an active layer formed on an insulating substrate and having channel, source, and drain regions formed therein, wherein a voltage is applied to the channel region to discharge hot carriers generated in the channel region.